

Seth Riggio

Biography

Seth Riggio attends Christendom College in Front Royal, Virginia where he joined the Chester Belloc Debate Society, was elected Freshman Class President and organized for the school's Student Activities Council. Before his days in college, he was Guest and Young Adult Evangelist at the Roman Catholic priory of the Community of St. John, Peoria, Illinois. He became a summer camp councilor for the mentally and physically disabled where he says that "in serving these human beings, I have realized more than ever that every life is sacred, and every human being has the duty to fight for these individuals' right to live."

As a student, Seth has spoken for the FairTax on numerous occasions and explains that the "current infrastructure to our economy is too complex, outdated, and unfair to all of this great nations citizens." Furthermore he says, "the last thing [our taxes] should be used for is to extend the arm of the U.S. Government into the personal lives and private sector businesses of its citizens."

He explains that, "Princeton University Econometrics surveyed 500 companies from Europe and Asia to see what impact the Fair Tax would have on their business decisions. 100 said they would move their corporate headquarters to the U.S., and 400 said their next plant would be built in the U.S. The jobs in this country would sky rocket, and the economy would receive a sudden economic surge from employment rates, and now wealth shooting into our economy."

Seth believes after studying tax reform solutions extensively that, "the best one in my mind is the Fair Tax."

Seth is from San Bernadino, California where his parents have instilled conservative principles, values and traditions as well as hard work and dedication. He currently lives in Front Royal, Virginia.

More on his FairTax Blog: <http://www.fairtaxnation.com/profiles/blogs/the-fair-tax-my-way-of>

Visit him on facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Seth-J-Riggio/130525192467>